JOSIAH WEDGEWOOD LODGE

Entertains the Grand Lodge Officers and Delegates—A Musical and Literary Program Follows and Grand Mogul Filmer Carries Off the Honors as Comedian and Tragedian.

The Sons of St. George have gone home, but pleasant memories of their visit will linger long with East Liverpool people.

Yesterday afternoon the grand lodge session came to a close. The new ritual arranged at the morning session was unanimously adopted. Nominations were made for the new grand lodge officers to be started next year and Canton was selected as the place of meeting on the third Tuesday in August. The grand lodge tendered a vote of thanks to Josiah Wedgewood lodge for their hospitality here. The closing ode was sung followed by "God Save the Queen" and "My Country 'Tis of Thee," and at 5 o'clock the grand lodge adjourned.

Last night's banquet under the auspices of Josiah Wedgewood lodge was the crowning feature. During the early evening the sons and their wives or more properly speaking the sons and daughters of St. George gathered in large numbers at Bradshaw hall. They were greeted upon entering the place by more crowds and two long tables extending the entire length of the hall. Thereon was spread every delicacy of the season, enough and more than enough to satisfy the inner man. So numerous were the guests that it was impossible to enumerate exactly those served, but it is estimated that between 200 and 300 were seated at different times around the festal board. The occasion was one of rare pleasure, a feast enlivened by witty conversations and delightful music from the Manley band stationed just outside the door. But if the banquet was enjoyable it could do no more than hold a place with the entertainment which followed. Neat programs, bearing the printed emblem of the order on their covers, gave the list of performers and when the tables had been cleared away and disposed of the meeting was called to order by Chairman Huggill, worthy grand treasurer of the order. The quartette sang "Moonlight Will Come Again" followed by Miss Linda Tarr in a vocal solo entitled "May." Miss Nellie Tarr in club swinging following a cute song was loudly applauded as were the preceding selections. A feature of the evening was the address by Supreme secretary, John R. Angier, of Akron. He thought that a feast of reason and flow of soul were inseparable to a grand lodge meeting of Sons of St. George. In dwelling upon the kindness of the East Liverpool brethren he said it reminded him of the one who said "God bless the man who first invented sleep." He wanted to paraphrase it by "God bless the man who first invented hospitality," especially that whole soul generous hospitality showed the visiting delegates in East Liverpool. "I have attended every meeting of the grand lodge so far held," said the secretary, "and I must say that East Liverpool has eclipsed them all in the way of hospitality." Speaking of the progress, or rather the lack of it in the order during the past year, Mr. Angier thought it was due to the condition of trade. Despite all this he thought the order had held its own and deserved congratulations. Never since 1873 had the lodge experienced such times as those of '93 and '94 but as it was after the last panic the order was again going forward with renewed vigor. He thought the action of the grand lodge in this city would start a new era in Ohio, and this could be looked upon as a start that would bring it to the second if not the first grand jurisdiction of the order. "The Sons of St. George," continued Mr. Angier, "is nothing more nor less than what we make it. We must show that all we represent is worthy of the respect of American citizens. We have no apologies to offer for being Englishmen. The natural overflow brought us here, brought us to a country where great national resources awaited our arrival. The liberty of the two nations is the same liberty: the history of the United States has grown out of the history of England. Why should a Son of St. George be anything but proud that he is an Englishman or a Son of St. George?" The speaker predicted that had the pilgrim fathers been descenddants of Ferdinand and Isabella the history of South America and Mexico would have been repeated instead of the country we have today. The World's Fair he characterized as a great event, but not to be compared with the event of 1892 which he thought of far more importance. Columbus discovered America but the Puritan fathers inaugurated the first form of republican government in America, and said Mr. Angier "It becomes our duty as Sons of St. George to maintain and perpetuate the glorious principles brought over in the Mayflower." The speaker thanked his audience and the East Liverpool brethren generally for kindnesses shown.

Thomas Filmer brought down the house with a comic song "Right before the Missis Too" in which he roasted Delegate Sell to a turn and made that gentleman's name rhyme with a warmer climate. "I Did It" and "I Took It" were titles of songs with which Mr. Filmer responded to encores, and kept the audience in uproarious laughter. Professor Roe in a concertina solo accompanied by Oney Culbertson on the guitar was enjoyed, while a song, "Send Me One Flower From His Grave" by Mrs. F. Lythe, was loudly applauded. "Uncle Joe" Hunter, of Bridgeport, followed with a "few remarks" which he promised would be at least remarkable. He told a story about a namesake who whipped his wife, and one day found her missing when he went home. "But worse than that," said Uncle Joe, "his shirt was gone too." The audience was convulsed with laughter but even more so when he remarked that he thanked the audience "from the bottom of his heart" and said that "from the heart proceedeth murders and such like." G. D. Thomas sang a pleasing selection and Miss McNicol followed with a thrilling recitation, "Lady Clare." Samuel Mayer sang "Only a Violet," in rich clear tones which merited the applause received. William Curfman and Miss M. Corns in an instrumental duet, and Thomas Watkins in a flute solo were praiseworthy features. Rev. Jesse C. Taylor, of the St. Stephen's church, made an address and told about the legend of St. George and the dragon. It was his opinion that all had their dragons and needed their St. George to kill them. Rev. Taylor spoke briefly. Miss Lillie Barlow played a piano solo and Mr. Filmer appeared in another comic song, "I Couldn't" and when encores, "Comin' Thro' the Dye." In the latter Councilman Owen was touched up to the amusement of all. Finally Mr. Filmer sang "On the Bridge at Midnight" and acted the parts to perfection. A comic recitation by Thomas Winkle, song "Thinking of Home" by E. J. Owen and "Larboard Watch" duet by Thomas Filmer and E. Sell were the closing numbers. As a final selection John E. Washer sang "The Union Jack" and his audience joined in the chorus with a vigor which demonstrated that Old England was ever dear to them. It was near 1 o'clock when the affair came to an end.

For the benefit of those not acquainted with the history of the Sons of St. George a brief sketch would probably be acceptable. During the Molly Maguire troubles several Englishmen in Scranton, Pa., banded themselves together for the defense of their countrymen. After their plans had been carried out and their work done they conceived the idea of making the order a permanent secret organization. It was named The Sons of St. George, and lodges soon sprang up in various parts of the country. Now it extends from Maine to Mexico. The chief idea is surely a patriotic one, being to have all members take out naturalization papers and become American citizens and to make and maintain a good form of government. A few examples of how the United States is benefited by them in the line of tariff are given. At the Johnson Steel works, Johnstown, Pa., one of their chief workmen is a man named Moxem. He has 102 patent rights not in use in the old country. Was he in England a heavy tariff would be required to get his inventions into America. Here the Americans have had the benefit for nothing. Also, in the case of J. N. Walker recently with the Walker Manufacturing company, Cleveland, who has about the same number of patents in use only in this country. The Sir Knights is an important feature in the order and some of the most prominent business men in the country are connected with it.

It would probably be interesting to our readers to know who the delegates to the convention are. The following are best known: E. V. Shaylor,

CALM AND PEACEFUL

Was the Democratic Meeting Last Night.

IT WAS THE SAME OLD MACHINE

As in Days of Yore, and the Delegates are What Those Who Gave it a Thought Expected—A Congressional Candidate Selected.

The Democrats of Liverpool township had it all to themselves at city hall last evening, but the event did not produce a prodigious amount of enthusiasm, although a feeble cheer or two was occasionally heard.

As usual it had all been cut and dried, and there could be no contests. Every man seemed to realize that the machine was ready to move, and accordingly put his shoulder to the wheel. The only business of importance, was the selection of the following delegates and alternates to the county convention: W. J. Mayer, J. W. Moore, Jr., T. J. Thomas, Dr. J. J. Kirk, A. R. Bell, C. A. Ferguson, J. C. Deidrick, J. J. Weisend, M. E. Miskall, Joseph Riley, James Tracey, W. H. Thomas, William Smith. The alternates are: J. N. Baxter, John Kerr, William Grafton, Joseph Hanlon, R. J. Meakin, John Weaver, Dallas Anderson, Robert Hill, Frank Williams, J. L. Deidrick, James Fox, Patrick McCullough, S. C. Whittenberger.

A resolution was passed instructing the delegates to the congressional convention to vote for Reverend Taylor and stand by him as long as there is a possible chance of winning. The meeting was a decidedly tame affair, and if Democratic enthusiasm is no greater in other parts of the district than it is in East Liverpool the vote polled this fall will literally be out of sight.

COUNTY COURTS.

An Interesting Budget of News From New Lisbon.

NEW LISBON, August 23.—The case of the Bailey-Farrell Manufacturing company versus A. R. Little & Co., and John W. Hamilton, which was taken to circuit court today on appeal. The plaintiffs are a wholesale plumbers' and machinists' goods, and the defendant is an East Liverpool house and owes the plaintiff $200 for a bill of goods. The defendant, J. W. Hamilton agreed in writing to be responsible for the payment of their bills not exceeding this amount and on their first refusing payment suit was begun before Squire Rose who gave to the plaintiff judgment for the amount asked. Appealed from there to common pleas this judgment was reversed and a motion for a new trial overruled last April. The case will probably be heard at the October term of circuit court.

Good Sport at Wellsville.

The Wellsville races drew fully 4,000 people yesterday, and the sport was good. Each event contained a sufficient number of horses to make it interesting, and the starter added to the occasion by insisting on a fair start every time. With the exception of an altercation between two drivers there was no trouble, and the day passed off pleasantly. Latimer Girl won the postponed race for three year olds, Dartford the 250 pace, Guy the 2:22 trot and Loafers P the 2:30 trot. It was freely stated in the grand stand that some of the horses made the mile in less time than was given them.

To be Tried Tuesday.

The defendant in the case of Groves versus Walters which was to have been tried before Squire Travis yesterday and was postponed until today, demanded a jury trial this morning and the case was continued until Tuesday next at 1 o'clock in the afternoon at city hall. The following gentlemen will compose the jury: Ex-Mayor George Morley, W. C. Davidson, J. A. Norris, R. B. Watson, James Vodrey and George Garner.

May Lease the Park.

Since the movement on the part of private parties to lease the East End ball park, there has been numerous attempts to locate other parks. Several of the Young Men's Christian association boys are said to have arranged to lease the West End ball park, but it will not be until spring and they will have plenty of time to think it over before that.

Attending a Sale.

Dr. Laughlin went to Georgetown this afternoon to attend the sale of his father's farm, stock, etc. The death of the doctor's father occurred several months ago, and the removal of the relatives from the farm necessitated the sale.

ADJOURN TUESDAY

The House and Senate So Decide This Morning.

SPECIAL TO NEWS REVIEW
WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—The house this morning passed a resolution to adjourn on Tuesday. This will give the president ample time to sign the tariff bill or permit it to become a law. The senate is expected to quit Wednesday.

DEALERS ARE WAITING.

Says a Crockery Paper of the Situation.

The New York correspondent of a trade paper says:

"Not asleep, but just waiting, that is what the dealers of New York have been doing for the past two months, but now that the end must come in a few days to the tariff bill and either way it is disposed of will be a great advantage over the uncertainty which has prevailed for the past long months. Few will be pleased with the bill if signed. However, when it is done all hands can settle down to work and make the best of the situation, and it is believed that there is bound to be some stir in the trade circles. Pottery interests have been hit harder than most any other industry and they, it is believed, can not stand it. The rumor is already current in New York that Trenton will shut down as soon as work under way is finished. We trust, however, that the demand for their goods will support them in running. The past week has certainly shown an improvement in the state of trade, and while it is rather late in some lines, a great deal can be done in the remainder of the season and the dealers feel more confident that the worst is past. Buyers are beginning to come in from out of town and the local trade has taken a start."

The Trenton correspondent to the same paper says that there is gloomy talk of another shut down in the potteries of that place. The manufacturers put forward the claim that they can not run successfully at the new rate of duty, and do not believe that Senator Smith can get his amendment through until the winter session. He also goes after the senator with a sharp stick, calling him an "intermeddling friend," and ending with "save us from our friends."

A Mystery.

The good people of Hookstown have a mystery which none seem able to fathom. On Monday an unknown man, neatly dressed and looking like a well to do merchant, drove a lame and tired horse to a livery stable in the place. After obtaining permission to leave the outfit there for a few minutes he walked away, and has not been seen since. The horse had been driven far for it was so loaded that it could scarcely stand erect. These things do not often happen in Hookstown, and the place is wondering what it all means.

The Funeral of John Cain.

The funeral of John Cain will take place this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock from his late home in the West End interment being in Spring Grove cemetery. Friends have been telegraphing for William Rex, his son-in-law, but have been unable to find him as he is in the Buffalo-Pittsburg road race, and probably knows nothing of the sorrow in his family.

One Result of the New Duty.

A special from Elizabeth, N. J., to the Pittsburgh Dispatch says that the L. B. Beerbower Pottery company have notified their employees of an immediate reduction in wages, and if it is not accepted the plant will be shut down. The men will not accept the cut, and 250 persons will be thrown out of employment. The pottery makes granite ware.

An Important Meeting.

Local union No. 22, mouldmakers, will meet in Brotherhood hall tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock. All members are earnestly requested to attend as business of the utmost importance will be transacted.

Sent to the Home.

A little tot started all alone this morning for the orphan's home at Xenia. The child was sent by George Hamilton, a relative, who accompanied her to the station, and the little one left with full confidence in her ability to travel alone.

The Anti-Saloon League Meets and Resolves

TO ASK A FAVOR OF COUNCIL

They Want the Saloons Closed Soon as Possible and Ask an Efficient Ordinance—The Plan Adopted at the Grand Opera House Meeting Last Night.

The anti-saloon organization held a meeting in the Grand Opera House last evening, and decided to ask council to do away with the saloons.

There were not as many people present as at former meetings, but the plan had been formed and was duly carried out. Rev. J. C. Taggart presided, and speeches were made by Colonel Hill Dr. Huston and Reverend Huffer. The resolutions were adopted without objection, and are as follows:

"We the citizens of East Liverpool, assembled in mass meeting in the Grand Opera House, August 23, 1894, being persuaded that the best interests of our city, financial, moral and social demand that we should use all right and lawful means to suppress or limit the saloon traffic within our city, as well as to seek its destruction in the state, and

WHEREAS, the laws of the state give our city council full power to enact a prohibitory ordinance which the majority of our voters have declared by their votes they desire, and

WHEREAS, the extension of time whereby the saloons are permitted to remain open has operated to the great detriment of the peace and good order of society, therefore,

Resolved, That the executive committee of the Anti-Saloon league be requested to ask our city council in the name of the temperance people of the city, to enact, without any unnecessary delay an efficient prohibitory ordinance.

Resolved, That in case our request is granted, we pledge ourselves to stand by our municipal officers in enforcing the provision of said ordinance.

The reverend-attorney, who hates the News Review with a bitter hatred because it told a few plain truths regarding him and his unministerial conduct, disgusted all persons in the audience by seizing the occasion to utter so dirty a tirade against this paper that his very whiskers shook in anger. He insulted every decent man in the opera house and proved most conclusively to every doubter, if there were any there, that his association with the cause but served to curse it in the eyes of others.

SALINEVILLE.

The Big Vein Coal company has resumed operations with 13 new miles.

An infant child three months old of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Reed, was buried last Wednesday.

Prof. R. S. Baker removed his household goods from this city to his new field of labor, East Palestine, last Wednesday.

Miss Emma McGill, who has been the guest of Miss Daisy Dordingley for the last three weeks, left for her home in Cleveland last Saturday.

W. B. Randolph, of Alliance, a recent graduate from Mt. Union college, but a teacher of several years experience, has been employed as superintendent of our schools for the coming year. School will not begin until October.

It is said the city will soon again have plenty of water, the present prospecting having every indication of proving a successful venture. If a sufficient supply of water is obtained during this dry weather no one need ever fear a shortage again.

An old coal mine under the Owen Burgett farm at the West End was opened up one day last week, and a great body of water let lose which came down the creek giving it the appearance of a freshet. The odor arising from this water owing to the large amount of sulphur in it was anything but pleasant though it is said to be very healthy.

William N. Hinkle Dead.

William N. Hinkle died at his residence on Sixth street last evening after an illness of two years, a complication of diseases contracted while serving in the army being the cause. Deceased was born in Philadelphia 62 years ago, and was married three times. He leaves a wife and three children, while there is also a stepdaughter, Miss Alice Scott. The children are Ruben, George and Mrs. Kuhp, all of Philadelphia. He was a member of the Ninety-fifth Pennsylvania infantry during the war, and is a member of General Lyon Post. Interment will be made in Riverview cemetery on Sunday.

Their Work is Done.

The ritual committee of the Daughters of America, who remained in the city after the meeting of the national council, have completed their work and returned to their homes today.

AND Grover continues to observe that dish of crow without putting his spoon to the crust.

WILL President Cleveland seem more manly if he permits the tariff bill to rest in some drawer until Monday, and then see it become a law because of the limitation period?

THE county papers howling about the New Lisbon tin plate mill should remember the little story of the dog in the manger. If the county seat can have an industry of this sort, for goodness sake let it be located there. It will never make any of its stockholders rich as long as Cleveland and his crowd are in power.

WHEN Mr. Brice comes home to boss the state convention he will pat the dissatisfied ones on the back, run that lily white hand along their arm a few times, and use that oily tongue, practiced and trained for the occasion, to such advantage that all the boys will slip into line wondering what they had been kicking about.

ENGLISH manufacturers continue to crow over the passage of the Gorman compromise. In the future they can see their pockets lined with American gold while their employees work for the American trade. Perhaps they may even catch a glimpse of America, and through the mist of the Atlantic note the poverty and misery on this side of the water.

IF Senator Smith would set himself right before the potters of America he will leave no stone unturned to have the duty on crockery restored. The success which his efforts have met, however, cannot prompt the belief that the New Jersey statesman is either too small a potato to make a show in the senatorial bush, or he does not care a row of pins whether he keeps his word or permits it to go by default.

BRECKENRIDGE MUST GO.

If reports coming from Kentucky are true the Hon. Mr. Breckenridge will be retired to private life by the people of the Ashland district. Mr. Owen, the man who is making a heroic fight against the tarnished congressman, has the good will of the public regardless of partisan feeling. In him they see one who if he has been guilty of the charges laid at the door of Breckenridge has at the same time sufficient manhood to keep his family and his friends from sharing the disgrace of an exposure. But no one can charge him with any of the social crimes that have cursed his opponent. He stands a clean specimen of the American citizen, and upon this the battle is being fought. Breckenridge blackened by the shadow of Madeline Pollard demands, pleads for his constituents to endorse his disgrace, while Owen asks nothing more than honor at the hands of the Democratic party. It remains to be seen who will win, but if there is decency left in the feeble breast of the average politician, and if right is a principle of Americanism, Breckenridge will go.

MEN NOT BLACKLISTED

Railroad Manager Before the Strike Commission.

NOT FORCED TO HAIL PULLMANS.

The Strike Cost the Rock Island Company From $500,000 to $1,000,000. Railroads Didn't Control U. S. Marshals. He Gives Information on Other Important Points.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—When asked by members of the government strike commission, whether his company had blacklisted men, General Manager E. St. John of the Rock Island Railroad company replied:

"Not in the sense that the word is generally understood. When a man is discharged from our divisions we send a statement to our other divisions, that he may not be re-employed, but no such statement is sent to other roads unless it is requested."

Mr. St. John was asked if the company's contract compelled his company to haul Pullmans on all passenger trains.

"No," was the answer. "We can haul Pullmans on any trains we choose and need not haul them unless we wish."

"Then you were not compelled to haul Pullmans during the strike?"

"No, we were not."

Mr. St. John was asked as to the number of strikers that had been taken back after the strike.

"Most of our men," he said, "quit work through fear, but of the 552 actual strikers only 74 have been taken back."

The witness said that their relations to labor unions were regulated by the number of men on their lines belonging to the unions.

"When a union has 50 per cent or more of men," he said, "we, as a general thing treat with its representatives. We had no dealings with the American Railway union as it had less than 500 of our employees."

"Did your road cut wages last spring or this summer?" asked Commissioner Wright.

"No, sir. We cut our force but not wages."

"Has your road advanced wages within the last 10 years?"

"Yes, we have frequently made individual advances, but no general increase that I remember of."

"How much did the strike cost the Rock Island road?" Mr. Kernan asked.

"I cannot give exact figures without reference to data, but I should say that the strike cost our road between $500,000 and $1,000,000."

Mr. St. John emphatically denied the statement that the United States marshals used during the riots were controlled by railroads.

"We asked for protection and furnished many of our employees, who were sworn in as deputy marshals. But after being sworn in we had nothing more to do with them. They were commanded and controlled, I suppose, by the United States marshal."

The witness said that many of the rioters who overturned and burned cars were strikers. He knew this to be a fact, he said, because many of them were recognized by the Rock Island employees who witnessed the lawlessness.

Mr. St. John also gave a history of the formation of the General Managers' association, which he denied had its inception from any desire to reduce the wages of the men. It was only organized to equalize wages. He feared very much that a reduction would be necessary. The Rock Island's earnings have suffered a decrease of $800,000 in three months. Some of the companies have had their earnings decreased at the rate of $500,000 a month.

Mr. St. John, in answer to a question, said the story that General Miles had called at association headquarters was positively absurd.

Questioned as to the best remedy for strikes, he said he had no suggestions to make, although he had given the matter much thought.

Mr. Kernan asked the witness if he did not believe a system of government license applied to railroad employees would be a good thing. Mr. St. John said he thought the plan had merit if it could be kept out of politics. The government might establish the system on some of the subsidized roads and try it.

THE RICH FUTURITY.

None of the Youngsters in Tiptop Form For the Great Event.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—The chief topic in racing circles is the Futurity, the richest stake for 2-year-olds in this country, which is to be run off on the track of the Coney Island Jockey club at Sheepshead Bay tomorrow.

None of the youngsters that are to start have shown anything like consistent form. Last week Manchester ran six furlongs over the Saratoga track in 1:41 1/2 and Counter Tenor the same distance in 1:15. In the race Lamley will have the mount on Manchester while Garrison will ride Counter Tenor. Colonel Rupert makes no secret of the fact that he hopes to win with the latter. Gideon & Daly will be well represented by Butterflies, Waltham and Keenan, and Mr. Gideon thinks highest of the filly first named.

Edward Corrigan has Handsome and Leo Lake, but it is doubtful if either will go to the post. The only one from Marcus Daly's stable which has shown anything like futurity form has been Sadie, but she is far below the average and the stable may not be represented at the post. Pierre Lorillard's best is Liza, and although she has run well in good company she does not seem to be in the class with the others mentioned.

Louis Stuart thinks he has in Monaco, a very high class animal and will probably send him to the post, although he has not done much in high class company. Perry Belmont's Magnetism colt is undoubtedly fast, but he is a bad actor at the post and uses a great deal of strength in fighting. He will go, however, and should be prominent for a while at least. Agitator is the only one of the Keene string which is thought to be equal to the emergency, and with Tatal up the colt will not be neglected. The Oneck stable may have two in its string for Doggett has done fairly well. California is the one on which Mr. Knapp pins his hopes, and with Doggett up she is pretty sure not to get much the worst of the start.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 24.—Race results here were as follows: First race, 5 furlongs—Barren money, won. Time, 1:02. Second, 1 mile—Lehman, 13 to 5, won. Time, 1:48 1/2. Sixth, handicaps, 6 furlongs—Elise, 4 to 5, won. Time, 1:15.

Jerome Park Results.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—The races at Jerome park resulted as follows: First race, 1 1/2 miles, selling—Lightfoot, 6 to 5, won. Time, 2:05. Second, 1 1/2 miles, selling—Live Oak, 8 to 5, won. Time, 1:54. Third, 4 furlongs—Sir Dixon, 9 to 2, won. Time, 1:18. Fourth, Titan course, selling—Hulton, even money, won. Time, 1:23 1/2. Fifth, 6 furlongs, selling—Albert A, 5 to 1, and Midstar, 9 to 5, dead heat. Time, 1:19. Sixth, 1 mile, selling—Adelbert, 4 to 1, won. Time, 1:44.

GAMES PLAYED YESTERDAY.

Looked Like a Shutout For Pittsburgh For a Time—Other Games.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24.—For the first five innings it looked as if the visitors would be shut out, the Phillies hitting freely and scoring steadily. MONDAY AT MIDNIGHT.

New Tariff Bill Will Then Become a Law.

THE PRESIDENT WON'T SIGN IT.

Neither Will He Veto the Measure—A Great Deal of Pressure Being Brought to Bear on Him to Show Official Approval of the Bill.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—The tariff bill is almost sure to become a law next Monday at midnight.

It can be almost positively stated that the president will neither sign it nor veto it, and it will become a law without his signature.

It is understood that a great deal of pressure already has been and still is being exerted to induce Mr. Cleveland to forego his present purpose and to sign the bill, either with or without some message expressing his views, but the president gave no encouragement to those who have pressed views of this nature on his attention.

The persons most urgent in suggesting to the president that he sign the bill are members of congress who have represented very strongly to the president that a signature of the bill will help them considerably in their defense of it in the coming campaign, and that should it not have the measure of presidential approval indicated by Mr. Cleveland's signature, their position on the stump will be embarrassing.

A veto of the bill, however, is not even suggested. It cannot become a law without the president's autograph until next Monday, and this being the case, the adjournment of congress will hardly take place before next Tuesday.

PLATES TO BE TORN OFF.

A New Move in the Armor Investigation. Cummings' Report.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—The house has adopted a resolution directing the secretary of the navy to remove some of the alleged defective armor plates from vessels and subject them to the ballistic test at the Indian Head proving grounds.

Mr. Cummings, the chairman of the committee, declared that a point in the investigation had been reached where this action was necessary.

When the Carnegie report was presented in the house Mr. W. A. Stone showed an inclination to fight it, but he thought the report was taking snap judgment on the Carnegie firm and was criticising the firm before the investigation is completed. He also thought the minority of the committee should have opportunity to file a report. Chairman Cummings said the report is a unanimous one from the whole committee, and that there is no minority.

The report submitted by Chairman Cummings is a remarkably complete and minute review of the case. The committee finds that charges of fraud have been sustained, scores the company severely, and recommends that 59 suspected plates in use should be tested as the only method of proving their fitness or unfitness. It also finds that the government inspection was negligent, but no charge of dishonesty rests upon the inspectors. The charges against the company are summarized as follows:

First—The plates do not receive the uniform treatment required by the contract.

Second—False reports of treatment of the plates were systematically made to the government inspectors.

Third—No bolts received the treatment prescribed for in the specifications in either contract. A report of a double treatment was made to the government inspectors.

Fourth—Specimens taken from the plates, both before and after treatment to ascertain the tensile strength of each plate were scratched without the knowledge of the government inspectors, so as to increase their apparent tensile strength when actually less.

Fifth—These specimens taken from other plates were substituted for the specimens selected by the government inspectors.

Sixth—The testing machine was repeatedly manipulated by order of the superintendent of the armor plate mill so as to increase the apparent tensile strength of the specimens. These specimens were juggled in measurement so as to increase their apparent ductility.

Seventh—Various specimens selected by the government inspectors were re-treated without their knowledge before they were submitted to test.

Eighth—Plates selected by the government for ballistic test were re-treated with the intention of improving their ballistic resistance, without the knowledge of the government inspectors. In one case, at least, the conclusion is almost irresistible that the bottom of another plate was substituted for the top half of plate A1 619 after it had been selected by the government and while awaiting such inspection at Indian Head. Upon this ballistic test a group of plates containing 348 tons, valued at about $180,000, were to be accepted or rejected. In three cases, at least, the plates selected by the government inspectors were re-treated in this manner without their knowledge. These ballistic plates represented 279 tons of armor, valued at over $410,000.

The groups represented by these three plates had all been substituted for a premium of $30 per ton if they passed a more severe test than required for acceptance.

Ninth—In violation of the specifications of the contract, pipes or shrinking cavities, erroneously called blow holes, in the plates were plugged by the contractors and the defects concealed from the government inspectors; these cavities in some cases diminishing the resistance and value of the plate.

Tenth—The inspector's stamp was either duplicated or stolen and used without the knowledge of the government inspectors.

Eleventh—The government inspector inspecting bolts was deceived by means of false templates or gauges.

Much of the testimony is reviewed in the report. It is said that the first charge is admitted by Superintendent Schwab, and that the specifications meant that the plates should be of uniform quality before treatment, and be subjected to practically uniform treatment, when practically uniform results would follow.

The following charge is said to be proved by the rough records of the company. "It is proved," says the report, "that the bolts never received but one treatment, while it was of the utmost importance that they should receive two treatments. Experiments had been made showing that, unless this treatment was given, the bolts would break under a heavy blow, rendering the armor, in a measure, useless. It is a bad result of this acknowledged fraud that today the armor on our ships is held in place by bolts which the company acknowledges have received but one treatment, when two were absolutely necessary."

The report then treats the minor charges at great length.

Militiamen Must Obey the President.

ALBANY, Aug. 24.—Attorney General Hancock in answer to a query for a decision on the point says: "I am of the opinion that not only is a member of the national guard liable to be called to duty outside of his own state but that he may be legally compelled to go and perform the same on the call of the president of the United States just as though he were a soldier of the regular army."

Not only that, but as they halted at the edge of the willows the captain put forth a warning hand and cautioned silence. No need. Rollins' straining eyes were already fixed on two figures that were standing in the shadows not 10 feet away—one that of a tall, slender man, the other a young girl. It was a moment before Rollins could recognize them, but in that moment the girl had turned suddenly, had thrown her arms about the neck of the tall young man, and with her head pillowed on his breast was gazing up in his face. "Kiss me once more, Howard. Then I must go," they heard her whisper. Rollins seized the captain's sleeve and strove, sick at heart, to pull him back, but Chester stonily stood his ground. In the few seconds more that they remained they saw his arms more closely folded her. They saw her turn at the brink and in an utter abandonment of rapturous, passionate love throw her arms again about his neck and stand on tiptoe to reach his face with her warm lips. They could not fail to hear the caressing tone of her every word or to mark his receptive but gloomy silence. They could not mistake the voice, the firm, shadowy though it was. The girl was Nina Beaubien and the man beyond question Howard Jerrold.

They saw him hand her into the light and hurriedly kiss her good night. Once again, as though she could not leave him, her arms were thrown about his neck, and she clung to him with all her strength. Then the little boat swung slowly out into the stream, the sculls were shipped, and with practiced hand Nina Beaubien pulled forth into the swirling waters of the river, and the faint light, like slowly setting star, floated downward with the sweeping tide and finally disappeared beyond the point.

Then Jerrold turned to leave, and Chester stepped forth and confronted him.

"Mr. Jerrold, did I not instruct you to confine yourself to your quarters until satisfactory explanation was made of the absences with which you are charged?"

Jerrold started at the abrupt and unlooked for greeting, but his answer was prompt.

"Not at all, sir. You gave me to understand that I was to remain here—not to leave the post—until you had decided on certain points, and though I do not admit the justice of your course, and though you have put me to grave inconvenience, I obeyed the order. I needed to go to town today on urgent business, but between you and Captain Armistead in no condition to go. For all this, sir, there will come proper retribution when my colonial returns. And now, sir, you are spying upon me—spying, I say—and it only confirms what I said of you before."

"Silence, Mr. Jerrold! This is insubordination."

"I don't care a d—n what it is, sir! There is nothing contemptuous enough for me to say of you or your conduct to me."

"Not another word, Mr. Jerrold! Go to your quarters in arrest. Mr. Rollins, you are witness to this language."

But Rollins was not. Turning from the spot in blankness of heart before a word was uttered between them, he followed the waning light with eyes full of yearning and trouble. He trudged his way down along the sandy shore until he came to the silent waters of the slough and could go no farther, and then he sat him down and covered his face with his hands. It was pretty hard to bear.

CHAPTER XV.

Tuesday still, and all manner of things had happened and were still to happen in the hurrying hours that followed Sunday night. The garrison woke at Tuesday's reveille in much perturbation of spirit, as has been said, but by 8 o'clock and breakfast time one cause of perplexity was at an end. Relief had come with Monday afternoon and Alice Renwick's letter saying she would not attend the German, and now still greater relief in the news that sped from mouth to mouth—Lieutenant Jerrold was in close arrest. Armistead and Chester had been again in consultation Monday night, said the gossips, and something new had been discovered—no one knew just what—and the toils had settled upon Jerrold's handsome head, and now he was to be tried. As usual in such cases, the news came in through the kitchen, and most officers heard it at the breakfast table from the lips of their better halves, who could hardly find words to express their sentiments as to the likelihood of their husband's fate.

to explain the new phase of the situation. When the first sergeant of Company B came around to Captain Armistead with the sickbook soon after 6 in the morning the captain briefly directed him to transfer Lieutenant Jerrold on the morning report from present for duty to "in arrest," and no sooner was it known at the quarters of Company B than it began to work back to officers' row through the medium of the servants and strikers.

It was the sole topic of talk for a full hour. Many ladies who had intended going to town by the early train almost periled their chances of catching the same in their eagerness to hear further details.

But the shriek of the whistle far up the valley broke up the group that was so busily chatting and speculating over in the quadrangle, and with shy yet curious eyes the party of at least a dozen—matrons and maids, wives or sisters of the officers—scurried past the darkened windows of Mr. Jerrold's quarters, and through the mysterious passage west of the colonel's silent house, and down the long stairs, just in time to catch the train that whirled them away cityward almost as soon as it had disgorged the morning's mail. Chattering and laughing and full of hope and anticipation of the glories of the coming German, in preparation for which most of their number had found it necessary to run in for just an hour's shopping, they went jubilantly on their way. Shopping done, they would all meet, take luncheon together at the Woman's Exchange, return to the post by the afternoon train and have plenty of time for a little nap before dressing for the German. Perhaps the most interesting question now up for discussion was, Who would lead with Mr. Rollins? The train went puffing into the crowded depot, the ladies hastened forth, and in a moment were on the street, cabs and carriages were passed in disdain, a brisk walk of a block carried them to the main thoroughfare and into the heart of the shopping district, a rush of hoofs and wheels and pedestrians there encountered them, and the roar assailed their sensitive and unaccustomed ears, yet high above it all pierced and pealed the shrill voices of the newsgirls darting here and there with their eagerly bought journals. But women bent on Germans and shopping have time and ears for no such news as that which demands the publication of extras. Some of them never hear or heed the cry: "Indian massacre!" "Here y'are! All about the killing of Major Thornton and his captives!" "Extra! Extra!"

It is not until they reach the broad portals of the great Stewart of the west that one of their number, half incredulously, buys a copy and reads aloud: "Major Thornton, —th infantry, Captain Langham and Lieutenant Bliss, —th cavalry, 30 men are killed. Captains Wright and Lane and Lieutenants Willard and Brooks, —th cavalry and some 40 more men are seriously wounded. The rest of the command is corralled by an overwhelming force of Indians, and their only hope is to hold out until help can reach them. All troops along the line of the Union Pacific are already under orders."

"Oh, isn't it dreadful?"

"Yes, but aren't you glad it wasn't ours? Oh, look! There's Nina Beaubien over there in her carriage. Do let's find out if she's going to lead with Rollins."

Vae victis! Far out in the glorious park country in the heart of the Centennial State a little band of blue coats sent to succor a periled agent is making desperate stand against fearful odds. Less than 200 men has the exalted wisdom of the department sent forth through the wilderness to find and, if need be, fight its way through five times its weight in well armed foes. The officers and men have no special quarrel with those Indians, nor the Indians with them. Only two winters before, when those same Indians were sick and starving, and their lying go between, the bureau employees, would give them neither food nor justice, a small band made their way to the railway and were fed on soldier food and their wrongs righted by soldier justice. But another snarl has come now, and this time the bureau people are in a pickle, and the army—over between two fires at least, and thankful when it isn't six—is ordered to send a little force and go out there and help the agent maintain his authority. The very night before the column reaches the borders of the reservation the leading chiefs come in camp to interview the officers, shake hands, beg tobacco and try on their clothes, then go back to their braves and laugh as they tell there are only a handful, and plan the morrow's ambush and massacre. Vae victis! There are women and children among the garrisons along the Union Pacific whose hearts have little room for thoughts of Germans in the horror of this morning's tidings. But Sibley is miles and miles away, and as Mrs. Wheeler says, aren't you glad it wasn't ours?

EZETA A PRISONER.

Salvadoran Refugees Held by U. S. Court Authority.

SALVADOR'S CONSUL HIRED A TUG.

The Clash Between Naval and Court Officials Compromised in a Measure. The Bennington Finally Steamed Into San Francisco Harbor.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—General Antonio Ezeta and his fellow refugees are prisoners at last by authority of the United States district court. The differences between the navy department and the department of justice were compromised at least in a measure, the naval authorities of Mare Island permitting the United States marshals to serve the warrants. The navy department maintained its position on one point, however—it would not furnish transportation for the marshal and his deputies to the gun boat. The marshal, too, was determined to uphold the department of government which he represents. He refused to charter a tug, and there

Dr. Calderon, the local consul of the Salvadoran government, finally interceded here and prevented any serious rupture between these clashing departments of the United States government. He went into his own purse for the money and chartered a tug. On board were Consul Calderon, United States Marshal Baldwin, four deputy United States marshals and Lieutenant Stoney, U. S. N., who went as representative of the authority of the Mare Island naval station to certify to Marshal Baldwin as a representative of the United States government, and to permit Commander Thomas of the Bennington to receive the marshal and his deputies on board. The tug, which singularly enough, was named the "Relief," arrived alongside the Bennington about 9 o'clock in the morning.

After the formalities necessary to fully sustain the dignity of the navy department were over, Marshal Baldwin and his deputies went on board the gunboat. The Relief steamed away heading for this port. Immediately afterward the Bennington's anchors were hoisted. She had been lying at anchor near the Farallone island, about 30 miles from port. A few minutes later the Bennington was steaming toward San Francisco bay, but as one of her engines is disabled, she made only slow progress. Later on the Bennington steamed through the Golden Gate. The refugees are now under arrest there is no doubt, for Marshal Baldwin and his deputies went on board the gunboat for the purpose of making them prisoners when the Bennington should have passed within the 3-mile limit.

The Bennington passed up the bay and came to anchor off the quarantine station. The health officers were notified of her arrival. This fact soon gave rise to a report along the water front that the gunboat had 23 cases of yellow fever on board. Neither Lieutenant Stoney nor Consul Calderon would verify or contradict the report or say anything about the arrest of the refugees. The yellow fever yarn finds believers, however.

ROYALISTS HAVE HOPES.

Queen Lili's Emisaries Pleaded With Their Reception in Washington.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—Commissioners Samuel Parker, H. A. Widemann, J. A. Cummings and W. T. Seward of Hawaii, who went to Washington over a month ago to see President Cleveland on behalf of the deposed Queen Liliuokalani and who returned here Tuesday have sailed for Hawaii. In an interview Commissioner Parker says that, Washington dispatches to the contrary, they saw all great men in Washington, including President Cleveland, and that their interview was satisfactory.

"We went to Washington," he said, "to get an answer from the government as to what it intended to do and we got it. It was to the effect that the government would not at present interfere, which was in substance the answer furnished by the senate some time ago. Still we got much encouragement of a substantial nature, which is to be held in private until we return to Hawaii and render our report to the people who sent us. I can say this much that it is satisfactory. I stayed at the same hotel with Secretary Gresham and saw and talked with him nearly every day."

Waiting on the New Tariff Law.

BOSTON, Aug. 24.—The Portland bark, Grace Deering, from Rosario to Boston, is lying off Cape Cod with a large cargo of wool waiting for the new tariff bill to become a law. She was sighted several days ago. Under the present law a duty of 11 cents a pound would be collected. Under the new law the cargo can come in free. It is estimated that the consignees will make over $90,000 by delaying the vessel.

Jumped From a High Tower.

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 24.—Colonel J. M. Winstead, president of the Piedmont and Peoples' Savings bank of Greensboro, N. C., jumped from one of the towers of the city hall here, a distance of 170 feet, killing himself.

Teachers are being examined at the Sixth street school building today.

The case of James Green against A. L. Harker will be heard by Squire Rose at city hall tomorrow.

Although the river is low, and fish are hard to catch these days some nice fellows are being taken from the water. A string of ten were being shown to admirers on Broadway this morning by a shanty boat resident.

The Buffalo-Pittsburg road race begins this afternoon at 4 o'clock, but no reliable news of the progress made by the Liverpool boys can be expected until tomorrow morning when they reach the vicinity of the Beaver valley.

The street railway company handed a great many passengers yesterday. Superintendent Andrews providing for transportation of people from Wells-ville by having a few extra cars as near the grounds as possible. He was there in person to see them start.

The main entrance to the new Central high school is almost completed and excites general admiration. The stone is gray, and handsomely designed while the workmanship on the trimmings is all that could be desired. Other parts of the building are progressing rapidly.

Professor Sanor has called a meeting of school teachers in order to organize a delegation to attend the county institute. The idea is to make a good showing there, and induce the other teachers in the county to select this city as the place of holding the next meeting.

John Burns is the name of a Third street man who whipped his wife last Sunday because, so the story goes about city hall, she would not give him money. The noise of combat was heard in the street, and the people were indignant at the conduct of the man. He was not arrested, because he saw fit to keep out of the way of the police, but when found Burns will discover that a man can not brutally whip his wife in Liverpool.

During the stay of the Sons of St. George in the city a large number of copies of the NEWS REVIEW were taken by them every day. Last night a prominent member of the order said that the majority of these had been sent to England. Almost all the members had friends there, and realizing that the newspaper accounts were reliable and it saved them the time of writing letters, they had mailed them almost as soon as they were off the press.

Bob Surles, who has been employed as brakeman on the Cleveland and Pittsburgh, met with a painful accident at Kensington, Wednesday night. While coupling cars his left hand dropped between the bumpers, and two fingers were badly crushed. He came to his home in this city, and an examination by a physician showed that it may become necessary to take a joint or two from the index finger. The injury is most painful, but Surles congratulates himself that it is no worse.

The Turner club will have a game with the Beaver Grays tomorrow, and great preparations are being made in the town of culture to greet them. The Star says that the boys form the best amateur club in eastern Ohio, having among its members old time professionals who have battled on many a hard fought field before thousands, or that is the impression left with the reader of the item. The boys should go to Beaver and whip the Grays out of their ball shoes, and that is probably what will be done.

Spring Grove, with all its attractions of pleasant companionship and excellent location, is gradually being deserted by the campers. A number of families have moved to town this week, some of the Wells-ville people are going home, and almost all the visitors from other towns have departed. The season has been one of exceptional pleasure to the cottagers, and a number are still there determined to remain until the frosts of autumn drive them to town. As it is the nights are getting cold at Spring Grove.

There was a runaway on Second street last evening that caused a lot of noise, brought together many people, and resulted in nothing more serious than giving a wagon maker the job of putting a few spokes in a wheel. The horse was hitched to a buggy standing at the passenger station when it decided to run, and until a telephone pole near Sebring's pottery was reached it went at lightning speed. The owner, a Clarkson man, thought he had seen the last of his rig when it disappeared in the gathering gloom, but the pole stopped the horse.

Clementson to Sell last night. "There's more music in this town than in many of the larger cities." Complimentary but true.

Mr. Clementson's sunflower attracted much attention, and it went with him to Cleveland this morning. He keeps it to remember the Jabawah degree.

Most of the delegates returned to their homes last night and today, and it might be mentioned that copies of the Weekly and Evening News Review followed every one of them.

My boy was taken with a disease resembling bloody flux. The first thing I thought of was Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea remedy. Two doses of it settled the matter and cured him sound and well. I heartily recommend this remedy to all persons suffering from a like complaint. I will answer any inquiries regarding it when stamp is inclosed. I refer to any county official as to my reliability. Wm. Roach, J. P., Primroy, Campbell Co., Tenn. For sale by A. H. Bulger, druggist.

A Dull Day.

Not a single item of news can be found about city hall today, the jail being empty, the mayor and chief of police being absent. The two officials mentioned are attending the Wells-ville fair.

Kenneth Bazemore had the good fortune to receive a small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea remedy when three members of his family were sick with dysentery. This one small bottle cured them all and he had some left which he gave to Geo. W. Baker, a prominent merchant of the place, Lewiston, N. C., and it cured him of the same complaint. When troubled with dysentery, diarrhoea, colic or cholera morbus, give this remedy a trial and you will be more than pleased with the result. The praise that naturally follows its introduction and use has made it very popular. 25 and 50 cents bottles for sale by A. H. Bulger, druggist.

"I know an old soldier who had chronic diarrhoea of long standing to have been permanently cured by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea remedy," says Edward Shumpik, a prominent druggist of Minneapolis, Minn. "I have sold the remedy in this city for over seven years and consider it superior to any other medicine now on the market for bowel complaints." 25 and 50 cent bottles of this remedy for sale by A. H. Bulger, druggist.

FIFTEEN YEARS OF WAITING.

A Mother at Last Secures Her Child by Kidnaping It.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 24.—Mary Meyer, the 14-year-old daughter of Gottlieb Meyer, was playing in front of her home at No. 552 Scoville avenue when she was approached by a strange woman.

"Are you Mary Meyer?" asked the woman.

"Yes," replied Mary.

"My child," exclaimed the woman, throwing her arms about her neck and wrapping the heavy cloak she wore about the frightened girl.

Since that time nothing has been seen or heard of the girl or the strange woman.

Fifteen years ago Meyer was married to Mary's mother, in Switzerland, and four years later they were divorced, Meyer coming to Cleveland and his divorced wife remaining in Switzerland.

Meyer again married, and has since lived in Cleveland. He heard that his divorced wife was in New York and was planning to kidnap Mary and take her back to Switzerland. He guarded her carefully, but, relaxing his vigilance for a short time, the opportunity looked for by the mother presented itself, and Mary was carried away. The police have been notified of the kidnapping.

Lutheran Synod of Ohio.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 24.—The Evangelical Lutheran joint synod of Ohio assembled here with about 500 pastors, teachers and delegates in attendance. Rev. E. A. Bachme of Youngstown, O., was elected German secretary; Rev. W. H. Price of Waynesburg, O., English secretary, and Mr. N. C. Nagle of Springfield, O., treasurer. The election of president was postponed to await action on a proposition to make the office a salaried one. The retiring president, Prof. M. Loy of this city, submitted his report showing that the synod had been blessed with prosperity despite the depression of the times.

We sell 75c Oxford ties for 50c a pair.

Moved Here.

Alonzo Thomas, who has been working on Second street for some time, shipped his household goods from Rochester to this city today, and the family will reside on Market street.

As a remedy for all forms of headache Electric Bitters has proved to be the very best. It effects a permanent cure and the most dreaded habitual sick headaches yield to its influence. We urge all who are afflicted to procure a bottle, and give this remedy a fair trial. In cases of habitual constipation Electric Bitters cures by giving the needed tone to the bowels, and few cases long resist the use of this medicine. Try it once. Large bottles only 50 cents at Potts' drug store.
